- (a) Lord Ripon (b) Lord Lytton
(c) Lord Curzon (d) Lord Minto

39th B.P.S.C. (Pre) 1994

Ans. (a)

Lord Lytton (1876-1880 A.D.) passed the Vernacular Press Act in 1878 A.D. By this Act, the Magistrate of the districts was empowered without the prior permission of the Government to call upon a publisher of any kind to enter into a bond, undertaking not to publish anything which might “rouse” feelings of disaffection against the Government. The Magistrate was also authorized to deposit security, which could be confiscated if the publisher violated the bond. If a publisher repeated the violation, their press could be seized. Thus, the Vernacular Press Act of 1878 gagged the press and the result was some proceedings against some vernacular press people. There was a popular protest against this Act. This Act was later repealed by Lord Ripon in 1882 A.D.
